Biography of Solon B. Colby

Solon B. Colby was born in Bow, N. H., July 25, 1900, the son of Dr. Frank and Caroline Colby. He was brought up on the homestead farm, attending school at Bow Mills, Concord High and Colby Academy in New London, N. H. He became interested in archaeology at an early age and has spent many years in the study of old Indian campsites throughout the state. He is President of the New Hampshire Archaeological Society, Past President of the Meredith Historical Society, a member of the New Hampshire Historical Society and the Society of Colonial Wars. He married Shirley Paine of Suncook in June, 1922. They reside at Meredith Neck, N. H., and have four children and sixteen grandchildren.

T HERE IS REASON to believe that primitive man lived in New Hampshire previous to the last glacial period but the advance of the great ice mass changed the surface of land and erased practically all traces of aboriginal occupation.

Fluted points similar to those found in the Southwest dated by carbon analysis as belonging to "Folsom Man" who lived in the Stone Age approximately ten thousand years ago have been discovered at Auburn, Intervale and Seabrook. If these points had been found beside hearths or campsites containing enough ashes of charred-out embers for carbon analysis, it would have been possible to accurately determine when the points were left there.

Without this definite proof we must admit the possibility of a Southwestern origin. They may have been found by members of migrant bands and brought into New Hampshire centuries after they were manufactured and lost by their former owners.

Radio carbon dating has shifted the position of several important chronological landmarks and jostled a few cherished theories. For example, it has moved the final phase of the last Ice Age in America up from 25,000 years ago to a mere 10,000.

The great ice mass had advanced southward into New Jersey when the big thaw began. A change in temperature to the warmer side melted the ice faster than it had formed and by 2,000 B. C. New Hampshire was free of its arctic overlay. In its place could be seen mountains of bare granite, glacial lakes and ponds, sand dunes, gravel hillocks and tundra.

At certain seasons of the year the rivers were literally filled with salmon, shad and alewives that sought convenient spawning grounds. The game itself was migrating northward, following glacial moss that grew in the wake of the retreating Ice-Age.

The Hunter-Fishermen came in large canoes hollowed out from the great trees cut in the warmer climes down South. Here there were no trees then, no forests. They came during the arctic summer and snow could still be seen on the mountains to the north. The severe winter weather and lack of wood for fuel made it impossible for them to remain here when cold weather set in and it was many years before the growth of forests made it desirable for them to live here permanently.

The Merrimac then, was a succession of bays from Lake Winnepesaukee to the ocean, a few of which now remain at Tilton, Laconia and Meredith, and which add so much of beauty to the scenery of the neighborhood. The rocky barriers of these ancient bays can be easily traced above Pawtucket, Amoskeag, Hooksett, Garvin's and Sewall's falls.

The bay formed by the natural barrier at Hooksett extended up river to Garvin's Falls and covered the intervalles of Allentown, Bow and Pembroke to a depth of twenty five feet. The barrier at Garvin's was somewhat higher and its bay covered the intervalles northward to Sewall's Falls. At its original level the widest part of this bay extended from Bow Mills to Black Hill. The old brick schoolhouse and blacksmith shop at Bow Mills were built on land that was covered with water 3,000 years ago.

One of the oldest Indian campsites ever found along the Merrimac was located less than half a mile north of the old "Ferry Road" in Bow. Here a point of land extends from a wooded hill downward to the riverbank forming a prominent landmark which for many years was called "Baker's Point". When this point was first used as a campsite by primitive hunters and fishermen it was a peninsula reaching into the bay and providing an ideal landing place for their canoes.

Some of the artifacts from this site closely resemble those from the Litchfield site that date back thirty six centuries.

The culture of the people who camped in the Merrimac Valley almost 4,000 years ago was quite different from that of their successors. They were a nomadic people who lived by hunting and fishing. They did not remain in one place long enough to raise crops of any kind. They were not acquainted with the use of tobacco. They made no pottery and stone axes were apparently unknown to them. They used spears and many types of stone and slate projectile points. In New England they had developed the stone-bladed adze and gouge to a point unknown in other parts of the world. The semi-lunar knife is another artifact that has been identified with their culture.

They have been called the "Red Paint Indians" because it was their universal practice to smear about everything they possessed with red ochre mixed with oil or grease. Not only their clothing, implements, ornaments, canoes, even their own bodies were so treated.

Not far from the highway leading from the Clarence Colby homestead to

Baker's Point - An old Indian Campsite

Wood Hill, on land now owned by Richard Hanson, there is an outcrop of red ocher which was the source of much of the red paint used in the Merrimac Valley. When the field was leveled for the Weirs open air theatre a "Red Paint" grave was uncovered that had been lined with a thin layer of red ocher. The ocher from the grave has the same color and other qualities as that from Bow.

The "Red Paint" people were by no means numerous in this locality. It is doubtful if as many as five hundred of them ever lived in New Hampshire at one time. They lived in such abject circumstances that only one or two infants out of ten survived the winter months.

A visit to Labrador and Northern Canada finds Indians living in the same environment that existed in New Hampshire over 3,000 years ago.

According to geologists who made a study of the Merrimac drainage system. A barrier of rocks and gravel over one hundred feet in height once stretched across the river valley in Tilton. This barrier was so high and held back so much water that Winnisquam, Paugus, Winnepesaukee and Squam Lakes were combined into one large body of water. When the barrier gave way over 2,000 years ago the resulting flood deepened the river channel and burst the smaller barriers of the bays in the Merrimac Valley leaving their former beds, dry and arable land.

Not long after this happened, people of Algonquin descent began their migration into the Merrimac Valley choosing locations in which to settle according to their desires. The center of the Algonquin culture at that time was in the middle Ohio Valley. When that became over-populated much of the northeast was gradually taken over by those in search of new homes.

Unlike their predecessors, these Indians from the Ohio Valley were farmers as well as hunters and in a few years the fertile intervalles of the Merrimac Valley were dotted with Indian villages.

It has been estimated that the Indian population of New Hampshire in 1600 was nearly 5,000 but the pestilence of 1616-17-18 reduced their numbers to approximately 500.

The Penacook Indians planted corn, beans and other vegetables on the intervalles at Sugar Ball and Sewall's Falls. Sugar Bowl Bluff on which their fort was located is a high hill of sand which can be seen for a long distance up and down the river.

The Abenaki word for sandy hill is Pnekokw. The Suncook tribe had a village near the mouth of the Suncook and planted their corn on the intervalles of Pembroke, Allenstown and Bow. Suncook is from the Abenaki word Senikok which means at the rocky place.

South of the Old Ferry Road where the "Granny Streeter" Brook empties into the river was an Indian campsite for many years. Artifacts from this site date back to early woodland. Pottery sherds have been found here that were crudely made and had no decorative markings whatever. At planting time this brook was full of suckers which were netted in large numbers and used for fertilizer. A fish was put in each hill of corn, beans and squashes.

Between Bakers Point and Garvin's Falls lies the White homestead now owned by Paul Lindquist. Many Indian arrow-heads spearheads and hammer-stones were found when the land was ploughed and at one time the White family had a box partially filled with stone implements. A near by spring of ice-cold water made this a favorite camping spot for Indians traveling up and down the Merrimac. French coins dating back to 1745 have been found near this spring. These were undoubtedly lost by war parties from Canada, during the French and Indian Wars, who stopped there to rest.

Garvin's Falls with its ledges and boulders provided convenient places for taking salmon and shad. The Indians congregated on both sides of the river during the fishing season. Stone artifacts have been found on the Ordway farm, on the May property and on the land near Palmer's once owned by Sam Sidelinger, but the campsites on this side of the river have been so churned up by successive plowings that almost nothing instructive remains. On the eastern side of the Falls four distinct levels of primitive occupation have been identified as "Red Paint" or Late Archaic, Early, Middle and Late Woodland. Evidence of a still earlier culture has made its appearance at a depth of nearly five feet but it has not yet been identified.

About the largest Indian site in Bow was located at the mouth of Turkey River. When the canal and later the railroad were built this important site was nearly all destroyed. From Bow Junction to Garvin's Falls the river current was very swift and many salmon and shad on their spring migration would enter the mouth of Turkey River before pursuing their journey upstream. Here, it was easy for the Indians to get all the fish they needed with their nets and spears. This was not a year around village site but the Indians that congregated here for centuries left considerable evidence of their cultures in the form of fish spears and projectile points.

The islands above the bridge at Bow Junction was a frequent stopping place for Indians traveling up and down the Merrimac. An old account mentions that Indians buried their dead on this island where they would not be disturbed by wild animals.

May's and Ordway's Farms

On both sides of Bow Brook, north of the old highway was an abundance of good quality clay which the Indians used to make pottery. This was tempered with fine gravel from the bed of the brook and shaped into pots of convenient sizes. It was then baked slowly with hot embers and varied in color from gray to brick red. This was the work of squaws and they usually added some decoration to the pottery by making figures on it with a pointed stick or other implement while the clay was still moist and soft. Norris Morgan, who owned and farmed the adjoining field uncovered Indian hearths or fire circles of stone when plowing. He said that Indians once upon a time planted corn and lived there long after the harvest season was over. This is quite probable for they had fish, game and corn to fill their needs and hills at their back to shelter them from the cold northwest winds.

When Willaby Colby cleared the land north and east of the intersection of Logging Hill Road and Route 89, he found an Indian mortar made in the top of a large boulder which he removed by blasting. Nearby he also found broken pestles, gouges and beds of ashes from campfires. This site was beside the old Indian trail from Turkey River to Turee Pond and only a few steps from the brook which runs through the village.

When the land was cleared about one hundred years ago the growth consisted of large white oak trees mixed with pines and chestnuts. One large white oak tree was left to grow near the highway and when it was cut down over forty years ago, the stump measured fifty eight inches across the top and counted about three hundred annual growth rings.

White oak acorns in large quantities were used by Indians and stored for food. They were shelled, ground and the bitter flavor removed by boiling in lye made from hardwood ashes. A clear sweet oil rose to the surface during this process, which was skimmed off and perserved in bladders or other receptacles;

A black gouge from this oakland site was the "Nucleus" of the Colby collection which now numbers several hundred New Hampshire artifacts.

Southeast of Turee Pond between Little Rocky and Big Rocky shores was a large field once owned by Mark Upton. Midway of this field was large boulder or section of a ledge which stuck up a little higher than the soil surrounding it. It was literally covered with chips of white quartzlite and chert. Some arrow maker must have spent considerable time at this spot. There may have been a supply of quartz and chert in the nearby brook. There used to be a spring in the woods north of the field.

Northeast of the pond on the Frank Whittier farm was a campsite that the Indians used for many years. It was located down in the back field and was handy to a small spring brook that loses itself in Turee Swamp. About all that remains there now is the brook and an extensive gravel pit. The Penacook Indians came here in summer to pick and dry the high bush blueberries that were so plentiful and in the fall to hunt moose, deer and bears. Stone implements of various kinds were uncovered on this site, some of which are in the Indian Museum at Phillips Andover Academy. It is only during the last few years that systematic reseach has been undertaken into the archaeology of New Hampshire. It seems a shame that so many important sites in our state have been destroyed before being properly investigated and recorded. Each Indian camp and village site has its own unique story hidden beneath the topsoil and to excavate a site without studying and carefully recording the evidence revealed by each occupational level is like destroying a valuable book that can never be replaced.

The Indians disappeared from the Merrimac Valley many years ago, followed by the salmon, shad and passenger pigeons. Until the early 1600's the

Indian Tools and Arrow Heads from Hiel Albee - Found on the Lindquist Farm

Penacock Confederacy was successful in warding off most of the Mohawk raids but after the Indian Fever of 1616-17-18 had killed off ninety percent of the Algonquin people in the coastal areas, the Mohawks met with little opposition. The Dutch traders at Albany encouraged the Mohawks by selling them guns and buying the plunder from desolated villages. By 1655 the raiding had increased to such an extent that the Jesuit Superiors in Quebec ordered their missionaries to return to Canada and for almost thirty years the New England Indians were without a Catholic mission.

Many New Hampshire Indians had received religious instruction from the Jesuit missionaries and were almost ready for baptism. In order to continue their lessons and receive the sacrament of baptism, several Sokoki families left New Hampshire and founded the village of St. Francis at the junction of the St. Francis and St. Lawrence rivers. They were soon joined by Abenaki families from Maine, many of whom had been converted to Christianity. Like their Sokoki brethren they migrated to Canada because of their religious needs. The English treated the Indians badly in all sections of New England and it is not strange that the Indians should seek revenge. Most of the attacks upon the frontiers from 1689 to 17960 were planned or piloted by Indians who had taken refuge in Canada and Maine. For seventy years they were allied with the French who treated them with consideration.

Many Indian war parties travelled the Merrimac during King William's, Queen Anne's and Lovewell's Wars, but it wasn't until King George's War that anyone was killed in Bow by the red raiders.

On the 20th of May, 1747, James Carr accompanied by Robert Buntin and his little son Andrew, ten years of age, had crossed the Merrimac and were getting their gardens prepared for planting. Their gardens were almost opposite the mouth of the Suncook River on land later owned by five generations of the Benjamin Noyes family. The Indians who had been concealed in a nearby thicket saw at once that they would have little opposition and rushed upon them with the intent of taking them prisoners. Carr attempted to run to the river but was shot and fell dead on his face. As the Indians ran up to scalp him, his large dog attacked them but was stunned by a blow of a tomahawk and left for dead. The people in Garrison at Suncook heard the firing but it being near dark did not venture to cross the river in fear of being taken by the Indians.

The dog having revived during the night was found the next morning with his nose laid in the hand of his dead master, nor would he permit anyone to touch the body without flattery and some force. Buntin and his son offered no resistance and were hurried into captivity through the wilderness to Canada which they reached in thirteen days. The Indians sold them to a French merchant in Montreal for the equivalent of sixty dollars. Mr. Buntin obtained his freedom in about eleven months but his son was a captive nearly three years, when he returned safely home. Sebatis, Christo and Plausawa who were acquainted with the neighborhood were supposed to be the Indians leading the attack.

Andrew Buntin, the son, later served in the Revolutionary War until his death which occurred at White Plains, New York, October 28, 1776.

Numerous Indian artifacts have been found on the Noyes farm and several fire pits were uncovered from time to time by plowing near the river bank. Early settlers found a much used Indian trail which followed Turkey River from the Merrimac River to Turkey Pond. This trail continued on through Hopkinton to the Contoocook River. Turkey Pond got its name from the fact that on early maps it was shaped like a turkey and Turkey River took its name from its natural source.

The Indians left New Hampshire many years ago, never to return. Their trails lie buried beneath modern highways and the progress of civilization has destroyed practically all traces of their primitive habitations and campsites.

FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

Comparative Balance Sheets – December 31, 1966 and December 31, 1967: (Exhibit A-1)

Comparative Balance Sheets as of December 31, 1966 and December 31, 1967, are presented in Exhibit A-1. As indicated therein, the financial condition of the Town changed from a surplus of $2,616.17 to a Net Debt of $103,898.73 during 1967.

Analysis of Change in Financial Condition: (Exhibit A-2)

An analysis of the change in financial condition of the Town during the year is made in Exhibit A-2, with the factors which caused the change indicated therein.

Comparative Statements of Appropriations and Expenditures – Estimated and Actual Revenues: (Exhibits A-3 and A-4)

Comparative statements of appropriations and expenditures, estimated and actual revenues for the fiscal year ended December 31, 1967, are presented in Exhibits A-3 and A-4. As indicated by the budget summary (Exhibit A-4), a net unexpended balance of appropriations of $8,779.31, less a revenue deficit of $226.69, resulted in a net budget surplus of $8,552.62.

Summary Statement of Receipts and Expenditures: (Exhibit B-1)

A summary statement of receipts and expenditures for the fiscal year ended December 31, 1967, made up in accordance with the uniform classification of accounts, is included in Exhibit B-1. Proof of the Treasurer's balance as of December 31, 1967, is indicated in Exhibit B-2.

Statement of Long Term Indebtedness: (Exhibit H)

A statement of the outstanding long term indebtedness as of December 31, 1967, showing annual debt service requirements, is contained in Exhibit H.

AUDIT PROCEDURE

The accounts and records of all town officials charged with the custody, receipt and disbursement of public funds were examined and audited. Vouchers and cancelled checks were compared with supporting invoices and payrolls as well as entries in the books of record. Receipts were checked by source insofar as possible and totals of receipts and expenditures verified. Book balances were verified by comparison with reconciled bank balances made from statements submitted by depository banks. Verification of uncollected taxes was made by mailing notices to delinquent taxpayers as indicated by the Collector's records. The amounts of uncollected and unredeemed taxes as indicated in this report are therefore subject to any changes which may be necessitated by the return of verification notices.

Conclusion:

The provisions of Chapter 184, of the Laws of 1955, require that this report or the summary of findings and recommendations (letter of transmittal) shall be published in the next annual report of the Town.

We extend our thanks to the officials of the Town of Bow for their assistance during the course of the audit.

Yours very truly,
O. Maunice Oleson, Director
DIVISION OF MUNICIPAL ACCOUNTING, STATE TAX COMMISSION

REPORT OF HIGHWAY DEPARTMENT

The year of 1967 was a frustrating one for your Highway Department. Due to the late, wet spring we were unable to start any road construction until the second week in May. This was about four weeks later than normal. Our first project was the section of Br. Londonderry Turnpike starting at the Bow Center Road. It was originally planned to improve the intersection and then go just a few hundred feet. When we got this far, it was impossible to stop because of the condition of the hill. Consequently we continued to the end of the open road opposite the Cross place.

We then moved operations to the No. Bow-Dunbarton Road, and completed reconstruction from the Page Road to the Dunbarton Line.

Then to the River Road to finish graveling and surfacing small section over the new culvert.

We moved from there to the Brown Hill Road, and, under T.R.A., reconstructed the section from where we left off last year to the top of the hill past the Bailey place. Then we asphalted with two coats all the way from Page Road to the top of the hill.

We then went to the Hop Kiln Road near the Brown Hill Pony Farm and constructed three hundred and fifty feet of road with a turn around, and surfaced it.

We then moved to the Robinson Road where we got as far as clearing the trees and burning the brush. The first snow storm of the year on November 15 stopped this job, and another on the 18th, and another on the 22nd, and one more on the 25th put us into the snow removal business for the rest of the year.

In between the new road construction projects, the highway crew cleared and prepared the area for the new storage building on White Rock Hill Road, filled around the dam at the Town Pond, put in some drainage, loamed and seeded the area around the dam.

We then put in the new parking area at the Community Building with gravel, put on an asphalt surface, loamed a planting area along the side of the building, and installed a granite curb the full length of the building.

During the season the Highway Crew resurfaced 24 drives, along with our regular maintenance work.

The Manchester Paving Company completed the paving on Ridgewood Drive, and Everett Avenue that was started last season.. Portions of the South Bow Road, Dunbarton Center Road, Birchdale Road and Brown Hill Road were sealed and sanded.

We wish to thank you for your cooperation during 1967, and we hope to serve you even better in 1968.

Walter E. Jones

ANNUAL REPORT OF BAKER FREE LIBRARY

1967 was a very important year for the Baker Free Library of Bow. For it was during the past year, money for a new addition was voted by the town. Mr. Guy K. C. Wilson, architect, was hired; Harper Construction, Inc. was awarded the construction contract; and Offices Unlimited of Lowell, Massachusetts, the contract for furnishings. Ground breaking took place on June 6 and Open House was held on December 27.

The older part of the building was dedicated in 1914 and, with the growth of Bow, we had outgrown our quarters. In the new addition, we have a reference area, adult reading room, new stack area; while the original part is a children's room. A larger office and working area, and a charge desk was also included. In the basement we have a large storage room for books and magazines; a story-telling or film showing room; a small kitchenette and the "Baker" room, named in honor of Mr. Henry Baker, our founder. This holds a collection of his books and will also be used by the trustees for board meetings.

The past year has been very busy and rewarding. Trying to meet the requests of the users and battling the noises of construction were hectic, but we survived, and I hope, kept every one happy.

Our staff was the same as last year. Mrs. Lloyd Brown, Mrs. Harold Foshier and Mrs. Roland Robinson worked as assistants with Mrs. Harold Howe as librarian. Our circulation of books and magazines was 26,396, only a drop of about 2,000 due to being closed for five weeks.

During the year we had bird books on display at a lecture given by the "Garden Club" and, again, gardening books at their Open House tour. Our library hours were the same as previous years, but, after the voting on the budget at town meeting, we hope to increase them. We will announce them later.

The staff, at this time, wish to express our thanks to all the people of Bow for supporting us in the need for a new addition. We hope, now that it is completed and the new furnishings in place, that every one is as happy as we are. Our gratitude goes to the Mother's Club, under the leadership of Mrs. Gloria Bishop for planning and serving refreshments at our Open House. Also Mrs. Gerda Burnett of the Garden Club for our beautiful table arrangement.

If you haven't visited us yet or haven't used our library services please come in. The staff will be at the Community Building all day with an exhibition of new books on primary and town meeting day. We hope to meet new friends and chat with old ones.

BOW PLANNING BOARD

The Bow Planning Board met twenty times during 1967. As part of those meetings five sub-divisions were approved and two industrial developments discussed.

In addition, five public hearings were held. The agenda of the hearings included five sub-divisions., Articles for the 1967 Town Warrant and the specifications for Roadways and Site Development for Industrial and Commercial Development as prepared by the Board.

Several meetings were held with representatives of the Merrimack Soil Conservation District resulting in the acquiring of five surveys for the Town covering: (1.) septic tank sewage disposal systems, (2.) location of home sites with basements, (3.) road locations, (4.) surface runoff, and (5.) industrial and commercial use. These surveys are of great value to the Board in making decisions beneficial to the growth of Bow. They are also a good preliminary purchase in the development of a Comprehensive Town Plan.

We recommend adoption of our request in the Town Warrant to allow the Board to hire consultants who would prepare a Comprehensive Town Plan for Bow. Such a plan guides development through careful planning by determining where, when and why growth should occur. Your support for such a plan is earnestly sought.

We thank the residents and builders of Bow for their continued support and cooperation.

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE BOW VOLUNTEER FIRE DEPARTMENT

During 1967 your Fire Department made 63 runs as follows; 3 house, 9 brush, 3 car, 12 out of town, 2 resusitator, 6 chimney, 4 dump, 1 lost child, 2 burned out motors, 2 fires at Universal Packaging Corp., 1 oil burner, 1 Insulation Fire at Public Service Co., and 17 miscellaneous runs. Our Fire log is down 6 runs under last year.

During 1967, the Fire Department sent Scott Bailey to Spruce Pond Camp. He came back and gave the Department a very fine report on his one week stay there.

The Mutual Aid Compact operated very satisfactorily during 1967 with a sizable amount of property saved due to the quick response of the Mutual Aid Tankers to the rural fires.

We would like to remind all the men in town that we are always looking for new men to join the department.

2nd Deputy Chief Roger Ordway was appointed Training Officer for 1967 and a fine training program was introduced to the fireman. More intensive training is planned for 1968.

Water was piped in over the trucks in the station so the trucks can be filled quicker and without rolling out hose.

During the months when there wasn't any snow on the ground, a permit is required before lighting any outside fires. The Lookout Towers watch for these smokes and if one is spotted, it has to be investigated. Please do not burn without a permit and also there can be no burning between the hours of 9 A.M. and 5 P.M. unless it rains and is authorized by the Chief.

Remember, Fire is a hostile enemy, don't give it a chance to start on your property. Good housekeeping in cellars, attics, and garages is a good step toward fire Prevention.

REPORT OF FOREST FIRE WARDEN & DISTRICT CHIEF

The year of 1967 will go down in history as a wet year although the early spring was dry and windy. During this time, we had many fires, unnecessary fires caused by carelessness and disregard for the common-sense fire laws and regulations. This lack of responsibility on the part of a few people hurts everyone. Let's work together to prevent the start of those unnecessary fires by:

- 1. No burning between 9:00 A.M. — 5:00 P.M. and then only with a permit from the Forest Fire Warden.
- 2. Take all debris and waste to the town dump.
- 3. Keep a clean, safe town dump.
- 4. Urge close supervision of children in regard to use of matches.
- 5. Exercise care with smoking material — use the ashtray.

LADIES AUXILIARY OF BOW VOLUNTEER FIRE DEPARTMENT Annual Report

As the year 1967 came to a close, it was noted with sadness that one of our inactive members was missing from our list; namely Agnes Vaughn.

Five ladies joined our Auxiliary this year, which gives us a membership of twenty-six active members and eleven inactive members.

On April 3 we served a banquet to the Poultry Growers and also one on April 13 to the Girls Bowling League. These were the only banquets we served this year.

It was voted that cancellation of meetings would be broadcast over W.K.X.L.

In September ten of our ladies joined Weare, by invitation. In October we invited the Concord Auxiliary, and four ladies joined us for our monthly meeting. At this meeting Mr. Gerald Height, Deputy Fire Chief of our district, and his wife joined us. He showed two films, explaining each picture as shown.

Our donations for the year were as follows:

Salvation Army (Concord)	$ 5.00
Salvation Army (Bow)	$ 5.00
Salvation Army (Bow)	5.00
State Hospital	10.00
Fire Department	100.00

Flowers and cards of sympathy and get-well have been sent throughout the year; also a basket of fruit was sent to a shut-in family at Christmas time.

REPORT OF BOW HISTORY COMMITTEE

Year Ending December 31, 1967

The work of the Bow History Committee continued into 1967 with its program well established. A general outline of the proposed content of the History of Bow, research instructions and sources of information had been prepared.

A public meeting was held October 13, sponsoring an illustrated lecture by Jewel Spangler Smaus on "A Return to Bow". The chapter on Indian History, by Solon Colby, has been completed. Chapters on Mills and Schools are partially complete. The Committee now has copies of all Town Reports, with the exception of 1860 and 1869.

Several reference books have been acquired by gift or purchase.

Letters were sent to owners of the older houses in town, asking permission to photograph the houses. Paul Nadeau continues to assist the Committee with photographic work.

The Committee is most grateful to all who have helped in any way, and invites further interest and assistance.

Consultant Services

The Bow School District in conjunction with the Bow Building Committee and the Bow School Board has employed the services of a team of Educational Consultants headed by Dr. Robert Anderson, Professor of Education, Harvard University. Among others serving on the team of consultants will be Dr. Joseph Cronin, Professor of Education, Harvard University, Dr. William Wolfe, Professor, University of Massachusetts, Dr. Virginia Bigge, Reading Specialist, and Dr. Roland Kimball of the University of New Hampshire. Robert Katterns, Professor at a New Zealand Teachers College, and currently at Harvard University, will serve as coordinator of the consulting team. Specialists in Elementary Curriculum, school buildings and teacher inservice training will also serve as consultants.

Through a special arrangement provided by the National Education Association, the services of the consultants are made available at a very moderate cost to the community and are well within the amount appropriated for preliminary studies.

The consultant services will assemble and study available data relating to the Bow population and trends. The current curriculum, staff and buildings will be examined in the light of the study. The relationship of the Bow school system to the school system of Concord will be considered and recommendations will be made. The study will also concern itself with how best to utilize existing buildings and make recommendations for a timetable for expansion for the future. Recommendations relative to the enrichment of the curriculum, library, audiovisual and electronic teaching materials and equipment will be considered in terms of our educational goals. There will be a thorough assessment of the staff and the inservice training required to effect recommended changes in the current teaching practices.

The Bow school system will be subjected to a critical evaluation in relation to modern educational practices so that we can adapt our educational system to best serve the educational needs of the students of Bow presently and in the years to come.

In-service Training

In the fall of this year we had the consultant services of Professor Deborah Stone of the University of New Hampshire for In-service Training for teachers in elementary school mathematics. Three of our teachers worked on curriculum revision committees during the summer of 1967 and two are presently working on 7th and 8th grade mathematics and science curriculum in cooperation with Supervisory Union 19 and the Manchester School System.

Textbooks and Library

We are in the process of up-dating our textbooks and filling in incomplete series. We purchased approximately 1,000 library books and this brings our total library collection to approximately 2,200 copies. Our libraries have been staffed by Teacher Aides this year. The Teacher Aide Program was funded by the Federal Government on an experimental basis, and it has worked out so well that we hope to incorporate it into the regular school staffing pattern.

Art and Physical Education

We have the services of an Art teacher for two and one-half days a week for the first time. This allows the children in Grades 1-8 to have a sequential program in Art through the grades. The program is being effectively implemented. This year, by starting early in September and continuing until June, we will be able to extend the swimming to Grades 5-8 whereas last year it was for Grades 7 and 8. The program is working out exceptionally well.

Higher Education Cooperation

In the 1967-68 school year, beginning April 1st we will be cooperating with the University of New Hampshire in a pilot program with regard to reading specialists and guidance teachers. We will have the services of a reading specialist and a guidance teacher, from April 1st to June 15th, daily in our schools at no cost to the District. The University of New Hampshire has already requested that the Bow Schools participate in this program for the school year 1968-69.

Innovative Practices

The following is a partial list of equipment available for the classroom teachers at the Bow Mills School and Bow Memorial School to enable the teachers to supplement their work with an audio-visual approach:

- Overhead Projectors
- Record players
- Film Strip Projectors
- Film Strip Viewers
- Tachomatic 500 projectors
- Bell and Howell Language Master Records
- Shadowscopes
- Motion picture projectors
- Film Loop Projectors
- Opaque projectors
- Transparencies

Teacher Supervision and Retention

John Lyford, Principal, is engaged in a full time supervisory capacity which allows for a continual teacher evaluation program. The Bow School Board, prior to setting salaries and renewing teacher contracts meets with the administrators to receive evaluation reports relative to each teacher in the Bow School System.

Bow continues to be fortunate in having an excellent staff. The school board, supported by the citizens, deserves commendation in adopting a salary schedule which attracts and retains outstanding teachers.

Acknowledgement

I wish to acknowledge the dedicated work of the Bow School Board comprised of Roy Peaslee, Chairman, Mrs. Muriel Howard, Secretary, and Richard Nichols member and chairman of the transportation committee. Bow over the years has fortunately selected school board members with a dedication to good education, a willingness to devote the necessary time to do a thorough job and the ability to communicate the educational needs of Bow to the community. They have provided Bow with an outstanding and ever improving school system.

I wish further to express my appreciation for the support and cooperation extended to the administration by the school board, Principal John Lyford, teachers, students, citizens of Bow and the Supervisory Union Office Staff.

Respectfully submitted,

Ernest Peltonen
Superintendent of Schools
